

#creativeHE Exploring Creative Pedagogies & Learning Ecologies

To test the learning ecologies idea

- 1) We have prepared a background paper explaining the ideas. We welcome feedback on the ideas and suggestions for developing the ideas.
- 2) We are inviting participants to prepare and share a pedagogic narrative of an experience in which they have either created a learning situation within which learners could use and develop their creativity, or they have experienced such a situation as a learner.

We encourage you to use your creativity in the way you present your narrative using illustrations, photos and other media and formats as well as text.

We are encouraging authors to evaluate their pedagogic/learning narratives using the learning ecology framework provided below. Please add any other ecological features you recognize and critique the model through your experiment. In this way we can evaluate and develop further the idea of a pedagogy for creative learning ecologies.

- 3) We will publish a selection of creative pedagogy narratives in Creative Academic Magazine #7 which will be our vehicle for sharing what we have learnt with the wider community. These can be anonymized if the author prefers.

If you would like further guidance please contact me normanjjackson@btinternet.com